Landowners May Destroy Goose That Laid Golden Egg

THE cutting of saw logs too small in size is costing Alabama an enormous loss from its forest resources and is depriving landowners and farmers of investment which would otherwise pay a 50 per cent or higher return.

Defense activities, especially army camp and other construction, have brought a big demand for lumber and prices generally have been good. Yet timber owners may be killing the "golden goose" by cutting young timber. Especially is this true in the case of at least one mill which is practically "cleaning" an area in Alabama, according to Paul G. Millsaps, assistant forester of the Extension Service.

The net profit of a 12-inch tree is eleven cents per tree. Net profit for a 13-inch tree is twenty-four cents. This represents a 118 per cent increase. A 14-inch tree nets forty-one cents. An 18-inch tree nets eighty-seven cents. A 20-inch tree nets $3.28 and a 24-inch tree nets $7.61.

A tree will grow an inch a year in many places throughout Alabama, particularly where a species is adapted to the location, if forestry practices, including fire protection, are carried out.

Figures compiled by Mr. Millsaps show that a 13-inch tree left to grow to 14 inches increases 71 per cent in value and a 14-inch tree left to grow into a 15-inch tree increases 59 per cent in value.

Live-At-Home

WHEN we think of what this "live-at-home" farm movement is coming to mean to Southern farmers and of the more it can mean in all the confusion and unsettledness of the world crisis, of the comparative independence of prices and crises it can give, and of the way of living it can provide them when so many others are losing the way, we are reminded of the story about the New York City man en route in a big car to Palm Beach for his winter vacation who stopped at a country cross roads in South Carolina to ask a bystanding farmer for road directions. "I've lost my way," he said, "can you tell me in which direction is Augusta?" The farmer didn't know. "Well, then, Columbia—the capital of your state?" The farmer didn't know that either. "Well, where is the nearest filling station—I'll ask there," demanded the tourist with growing exasperation. "I dunno," said the farmer. "You don't seem to know anything at all," the New Yorker complained. "Maybe not," drawled the farmer, "but I ain't lost."

NIMBLE FINGERS AND NEW IDEA PAY

MRS. J. L. PARNELL, Union Hill in Etowah County, finds that wit and nimble fingers pay. Mrs. Parnell makes handiwork a specialty in making and selling favors for parties. Such tricky little things as turkeys, storks, penguins, and ash trays from pine cones are made by Mrs. Parnell whose only expense is a little paint and cement. Thus far Mrs. Parnell has sold $75 worth of party favors. Another of her inventions was a tiny cedar tree set in a base of damp sand.

Nitrate Is Stored

MOBILE is one of the locations of Southern warehouses which will be used to store part of the 100,000 tons of Chilean nitrate brought to the United States from Chile by the Defense Supply Corporation.

These 100,000 tons are part of a $500,000 ton consignment bought last year to be brought to this country and stored.

These 100,000 tons may be drained upon in case it is needed either for farm fertilizer or munitions manufacture. The remaining 200,000 tons will be left in Chile for the time being. This is part of the program to do more trading with South American countries.

Pork Leads Meat Diet Parade

WHAT goes onto America's meat platter is now known. In 1939, the total amount of meat consumed was 20 billion 45 million pounds, an average of 153 pounds per person.

Pork was far-and-away the meat that turned up most often on the table. Out of every 100 pounds of meat eaten in 1939 about 42 pounds were pork.

After pork, beef was the mainstay of America's dinners with 35 pounds of each 100 pounds of meat eaten in 1939. Chicken made up the third biggest item on America's meat platter. It accounted for 12 pounds out of every 100 pounds of meat consumed. Next came veal, with five pounds; lamb and mutton, four pounds; finally, turkeys, with two pounds of meat out of each 100 pounds of meat bought.

Mattress Needles

MATTRESS needles, used extensively in Alabama during the last two years, are now being produced in Connecticut. Here, therefore, they have been made in England.

The tractor is his competitor, but folks say the mule will not be replaced altogether on farms.

Plenty Of Food Is Her Motto

MRS. O. SHORT, Horton, Rt. 2, in Marshall County, certainly has a right to be proud of her record in 1940. Here it is:

She canned 70 bottles of tomato catsup, 340 quarts of fruits and vegetables, 45 quarts of meat. She sold $98.83 worth of butter, $445.02 worth of eggs, $58.89 worth of chickens, $27.34 worth of live hogs and $6.97 worth of meat.

Mrs. Short has been chosen by Vergie Winn Gunn, home agent, to keep a family food supply record for 1941. "Her splendid record has influenced others to keep a record of their family's food supply," says Miss Gunn.

Diet May Cause Early Grey Hair

DOES lack of a good diet make hair turn grey? Many questions have been asked as to the effect of diet and the lack of vitamins on hair. Mildred Simon, nutrition specialist of the Extension Service, says that scientists have known for a long time that a diet low in vitamins may be the first reason for premature old age.

Recent results at the California Experiment Station show that rats guinea pigs, foxes, and dogs all turned grey early if they lived on food low in one of the B vitamins. The animals showed other symptoms of premature old age.

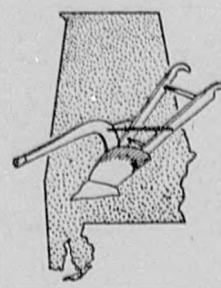

Elmer Vanlandingham, farmer of the Slocumb community in Geneva County, Alabama, has an unusual type of water tank. Mr. Vanlandingham wanted a water system in his house and barn but was held back due to the price of the tank. He devised a water tank from a hollow cypress log, as seen above.

Mr. Vanlandingham's log tank holds approximately 250 gallons of water, which is plenty to fill his requirements.—W. G. Eden, Assistant County Agent.

$80 A BALE COTTON WOULD HELP

FOR many years we have had an open season for making and presenting farm programs. Each, of course, is intended to improve the financial and social status of farmers. So I present a program for all farmers, especially Alabama farmers. It is really not new. Here it is:

(1) Put the price of farm products high enough for all efficient producers to have a satisfactory income.

(2) Make available sound crop insurance to protect farmers against forces and conditions over which they have no control, such as abnormal weather.

(3) Provide funds for soil conservation payments to enable farmers to improve their land. AAA is now doing this.

(4) Use every acre of land available for efficient production of cash crops, livestock, food, feed, fertility.

THE above is a sound farming program. These four are, in fact, the cardinal principles of successful farming under existing conditions in Alabama, and in the nation.

Let's talk more about the first, that of prices. Labor is an important part of every farm product. A bale of cotton, for example, has in it from 125 to 150 hours of human labor. This means work by men, women, and children.

Obviously, it is impossible for producers of cotton to get satisfactory wages for their labor unless they get satisfactory prices for cotton. The same is true of other farm products.

IN a recent letter to the writer Judge W. H. Tayloe, farmer and banker of Perry County, reminded us that cotton has been a cheap labor crop since its early development. Many wanted a cheap labor crop. He said that this was a big factor in the struggle over slavery, ending with the War Between the States, or the Civil War.

And cotton has never paid its producers satisfactory wages except during abnormal times when market prices were well above average. This is why producers of cotton rank so low in consuming cotton. They rank low also in consuming other products because their income is low. They need more cash.

This is brief is why I heartily endorse the efforts being made by Senator John H. Bankhead, President Edward A. O'Neal of the American Farm Bureau Federation, and President Walter L. Randolph of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation for the enactment of legislation to lift the price of cotton to parity which is now almost 16 cents a pound, or $80 a bale.

IF each cotton grower who reads this will compare $80 a bale for the cotton he made in 1940 with what he actually received for it he will see what this legislation means to him in 1941.

For Alabama it would mean $63,200,000 for a 1941 crop the same size of last year. This would be an increase of about $26,070,000 over the 1940 figure.

Unless we can get a higher price for cotton our income will remain at a subsistence level which is far too low. And I am sure that any government that can pass laws that fix wages can also pass laws that fix prices of cotton and other farm products.

PRICE fixing which can be done through a loan would require control of production such as we already have. It should be accompanied by an export subsidy to make our cotton available to all open markets on a competitive basis. Markets are now closed in many nations of the world, but there are open markets where American cotton is not being sold because no export subsidy is being offered to put it over.

CROP insurance is available only on wheat. Last year Senator Bankhead and Congressman John Sparkman of Alabama were leaders in cotton insurance legislation which was vetoed. I hope that another bill will be enacted this year and then become a law. Farmers need it. Without it they are at the mercy of abnormal weather such as we had in portions of Alabama the last three years.

A few more words about living at home. Always important this is more important now. It is vital. Hence, I urge all who read this to be sure they make enough to eat at home this year.

Try to make too much; then do a good job of saving it. Time spent making and saving food will be time well spent. It likely will be work for which you will receive your highest wages.

I hope that all of us will restore the good old practice of "living

Elaine Reddoch, Luverne, Alabama, eating dried soybeans. W. D. Salmon, nutritionist, Alabama Experiment Station, has found that the following soybean varieties cook well and are rich in food value: Rokusan, Delsta, Tokio, Imperial (early), Kelnoshat, and No. 85560 (medium early).

These Peas Really Paid Dividends

BOSE JONES, Pickens County colored farmer, told the following story in a Farm Bureau meeting after a talk on "Live at Home" program:

"In April I bought a pound of peas for 9 cents. I planted them and they grew into fine vines. I had plenty of peas. I fed all my family, and I've got 10 children, and all my neighbors on green peas, and sold $3 worth. We ate green peas until frost, then started eating dry peas. We ate dry peas until the third week in January, then I shipped out what was left, and had 9 gallons of clean peas. All this for just 9 cents."

4-H CLUB HAS 4-H OFFICERS

THE Threets Cross Roads 4-H club in Lauderdale County stuck to the 4-H's when they elected the club officers: Thomas Hart, president; Elmer Hyde, vice-president; Melvin Hart, secretary, and Cecil Hart, song leader.

at home and boarding at the same place." Those who do this and then get a satisfactory price for their cash crops—as discussed above—will be fortunate. Yes, they will be good farmers and happy livers.

A few days ago a prominent Alabama business man who was reared on a farm told me that he was offering to lease his father's old plantation for just a little more than taxes. He said that operating it has lost him money every year.

What a pity! Tragic! That returns upon farm land are so low! Wages, of course, on this farm have been distressingly low.

Yet it will be this way until higher prices are paid for cotton and other farm products. So every farmer and every friend of farmers need to work together for high prices of farm products until every efficient producer of farm products has an income in cash that is adequate for him and his family to enjoy the standard of living to which they are entitled.

Dairying In May

In May, Farmers Who Make Dairying Pay, Will—

USE a proven bull or a bull from proven parentage. The sire should raise the average production of the herd, to keep it on a profitable basis. He should come from stock that produced better than a pound of butterfat per day.

GROW good pastures. When properly supplemented with a reasonable amount of grain, pasture is the cheapest feed on the farm. It often pays to supplement permanent pastures by grazing ludzu or Sudan grass. Such crops greatly increase the time of grazing and provide a lot of additional feed.

MAKE grass silage to supplement short pastures or to use during the winter. By adding 40 to 50 pounds of blackstrap molasses to each ton of grass or cereal ensilage—or 60 to 100 pounds of blackstrap to each ton of legumes, these crops can be ensiled without chance of spoiling. Also plant enough sorghum to meet your ensilage requirements this fall.

PRODUCE better quality hay in abundance. Legumes usually yield higher than grass hay which makes them more profitable to raise. Cut the hay at the proper stage to retain most of the leaves. Fine-stemmed, leafy hay with most of the green color retained is higher in protein, minerals and vitamin A. It is also more palatable and will produce more milk than coarse-stemmed hay which is too often fed to dairy cows in Alabama.

CONTINUE to feed grain on pasture. Some dairymen feel that they cannot afford to feed grain during times of low milk and butterfat prices. Good feeding makes two or three times as much profit as poor feeding, even on good pasture because we must keep our cows in production for 10 months each year if they are to be profitable.

Plastic Cars

HENRY FORD believes that his plastic car may widen the field of agriculture to a point where all vegetation eventually will be utilized by industry. The revolutionary use of plastics in the superstructure of an automobile would require, for 1,000,000 cars, among other materials 100,000 bales of cotton, 500,000 bushels of wheat, 700,000 bushels of soy beans and 500,000 bushels of corn.

In May, Farmers Successful With Poultry Are:

KEEPING a constant watch on their growing chicks, seeing that they have ample supply of growing mash before them continuously.

GETTING a greater consumption of feed in the birds by putting feed out two or three times daily instead of filling their hoppers once a day.

SUPPLYING the growing stock with plenty of clean, fresh, cool water twice or three times daily.

SEPARATING the cockerels from the pullets as soon as they are large enough to determine sex. They are using every known means to get the cockerel broilers ready for market as soon as possible, thus giving the pullet chicks more room.

PAINTING their perch poles and perch pole supports with carbolineum or creosote oil to make sure no mites will be present during the summer months.

PERIODICALLY examining the birds to see that no lice are present; if present they are treated with black leaf 40 or sodium fluoride.

MAKING arrangements to vaccinate their pullets against chicken pox when they are eight to ten weeks of age.

MAKING further check on amount of feed that will be required to feed flock next year and planting enough corn to supply each bird with one bushel of corn for 1941-42.

IMMEDIATELY selling all hens that go broody or go out of production.

MORE SEED PATCHES

MORE than 50 Greene County farmers are solving their seed problems by growing seed patches.

Alabama Leads Again

ALABAMA is the first state to have every acre of farm land in soil conservation districts—in officially designated areas where the cooperative soil conservation work of different agencies is directed by a board of farmer-supervisors.

Recently farmers of 15 counties voted overwhelmingly in favor of the districts program as have all other farmers and landowners. Districts are designated by the State Soil Conservation Committee, headed by P. O. Davis, Extension Service director, and the landowners vote in a referendum as to whether they approve or disapprove the formation of the district.

In each district five farmers act as supervisors and have at their disposal the assistance of the U. S. Department of Agriculture agencies, mainly the Extension Service and the Soil Conservation Service. Farmers make applications to the supervisors for technical assistance in making soil conservation plans for their farms.

In all, 41 states have now enacted laws permitting farmers to establish districts and obtain charters from the State.

Six Ways To Save Clover Seed

J. C. FRINK
Assistant Extension Agronomist

1. Mowing machine (cut and scatter hay on other land).
2. Hand pulling.
3. Distribution by cattle. (Keep cattle off until seed have headed.)
4. Lawn mower.
5. Hand blade.
6. Combine.

At the present high price of white Dutch clover seed, it is very desirable that every farmer who has white Dutch clover harvest seed this spring.

Under the new "Alabama 5-year plan" the demand for clover seed has more than tripled. Farmers who are far-sighted enough to save these seed this spring will be well-paid for their trouble this fall.

One farmer reported that he saved $7 worth of these seed in one day last spring with a lawn mower.

In May, Successful Gardeners Are:

MAKING another planting of sweet corn in the garden or truck patch. Good fertilizing and plantings every two weeks from now through July pay well with this crop. Stowells Evergreen, Honey June, and Bantam Evergreen hybrid are recommended.

GETTING ready for and setting their first sweet potato plants for early market potatoes. About cotton planting time is the best time for this setting. Use 600 to 800 pounds of 4-10-7 fertilizer per acre. These will furnish vine cuttings for later plantings.

DOING the first summer spraying of peach and plum trees in southern and central Alabama. The spray is made by mixing one pound of lead arsenate and four pounds hydrated lime in 50 gallons of water. Repeat spray in two weeks for best results.

GETTING prepared for cut worms. To control cut worms shred a cabbage and mix calcium arsenate on it. Spread in the cut worm area in the late afternoon or scatter poisoned bran mash.

PLANTING pepper, lima beans, pole beans, sweet corn, egg plant, okra, sweet potatoes. Farmers are also planting edible soybeans—a good variety is Rokusan.

PLANTING more field peas to eat and to be saved.

Here's a homemade drag in use for making terraces. Louis Floyd (on tractor) and Aubrey Floyd, of Goshen Route 2, are "doing fine" in terrace building with this homemade equipment.

In May, Farmers Successful With Livestock Are:

PLANTING a succession of forage crops for their hogs and starting to fallow land to grow early fall crimson clover and small grain to supply protein and vitamin A for their hogs next winter. They will also use additional nitrogen on their crops to make higher yields to produce more pork. Corn should be side-dressed with nitrogen 30 to 35 days after planting.

Inasmuch as the price of hogs has been pegged at not less than nine cents at Chicago, possibilities of more profit with hogs in Alabama are much better.

REDUCING internal parasite damage to hogs by cleaning areas used by hogs. They will not let hogs get around or under permanent buildings during the summer.

STARTING drenching sheep for internal parasites, using either copper sulphate and nicotine solution or the new phenothiazine. Lambs should be given a little grain in a creep to push them along because grain fed to lambs is sold at a higher price than grain used in any other way.

PLANTING an area of sorghum for silage for beef cattle next winter. They plan on three tons of sorghum silage per cow and expect to obtain 10 tons per acre on good land. A peck of seeded ribbon cane per acre in 3 1/2 foot rows and left thick in the drill is needed.

STARTING pasture mowing program.

Cotton Wages

UNFAIR Federal laws and regulations have been largely responsible for the present comparatively low status of our cotton belt—Federal funds should heal this hurt. A farm wage of 90¢ per day is compared with textile wages, the minimum of which is 32 1/2¢ per hour. For every textile worker some one had to invest $3,500.00 in tools and equipment in order that he might have a job. These spindles and looms to succeed have to run eighty hours a week, fifty-two weeks a year. They have to be kept in order, in repair. When our farmer has $5,500.00 worth of good land and good tools, and all his land and tools are kept in order and employed the year around, we will begin to get at once the answers to this question. We must have a better mixing of factory with farm.

When To Side-Dress

POINTING out that the time element of side-dressing both corn and cotton is very important, J. T. Williamson, associate agronomist of the Alabama Experiment Station, advises Alabama farmers to apply up to 200 pounds of soda per acre to their corn 30 to 35 days after planting. Cotton should receive the side-dressing at the time of the first cultivation, immediately after chopping.

Dusting Peanut Seed

EXPERIMENTS in Georgia show that treatment of peanuts the same as cotton seed by dusting with two per cent ceresan has increased germination and the yield of peanuts, says Farm and Ranch Magazine. Hand-shelled peanuts dusted with three ounces of ceresan per bushel had an 88.6 per cent germination as compared to 82.2 per cent germination from undusted seed. The yield was 1,697 pounds per acre with dusted seed compared to 1,589 pounds per acre with undusted seed.

Farm Questions Answered

Are there questions you want answered? Send them to This Month in Rural Alabama, Extension Service, Auburn. Answers will be given in this space in the next issue.

Q. My flock of chickens has too many non-layers. When should I cull?

A. Culling should be done January to February when egg prices drop considerably and August to October when mature hens are mostly out of production and room must be made for new pullets.

Q. Give me names of suitable sweet corn for planting.

A. Golden Cross Bantam and Bantam Evergreen hybrid both do well in Alabama, as does Trunkers' Favorite and Honey June.

Q. Please tell me the control for aphids on turnips.

A. Spray on underside of leaves with solution containing 1 1/2 teaspoons of nicotine sulphate to 1 gallon soapy water. Or use dust containing 0.75 per cent rotenone.

Things To Plant

ALABAMA farmers expecting best results from their home garden should plant more pole beans, lima beans, field peas, corn, sweet potatoes, and set out more tomatoes during May.

Cotton Into Paper

A Federal program to encourage the use of low-quality raw cotton in the manufacture of high-grade writing paper is announced by the Surplus Marketing Administration. Similar to the 1940 cotton paper program, the plan calls for the diversion of up to 10 thousand bales of low-grade cotton to the manufacture of high-grade writing papers. Diversion payments will be made at the rate of 4 1/2 cents per pound on 75 per cent of the cotton used for this purpose by approved manufacturers.

Stop Those Weeds!

WEEDS compete with grasses for plant food, water and space so Alabama farmers should resolve to keep pastures mowed this season. Mowing should be done before annual weeds seed and before perennial weeds establish strong root systems.

Pasture Show Held On Prattville's Main Street

MANY new ideas along agricultural lines have been pulled out of the bag in Autauga County in recent years but a unique pasture show held recently on the Prattville city streets is the best yet. Originator of this new idea and other unique ways to make Autauga County agriculture progressive is County Agent John Ford.

Held on the main street, this pasture show was complete with prizes for the best and worst exhibits of a three-by-one-foot strip of pasture sod. Edwards Wadsworth, Prattville, received 1,000 pounds of basic slag for having the best strip—containing common lespedeza, white Dutch clover, dallis grass, Kentucky blue grass, and hop clover. His pasture has been fertilized with phosphate.

Cover Crops Are Still Soil Savers

AGRICULTURAL history is repeating. Thousands of American farmers today are using cover crops to protect soil from erosion and to increase its fertility—just as American colonists used them 200 years ago, as Greek and Roman farmers used them 2,000 years ago, and Chinese farmers used them even before that.

Recent summaries show that in 1939, the last year for which complete records on A.A.A. soil-building practices are available, American farmers participating in the A.A.A. Farm Program grew 26 million acres of green manure and cover crops. A quarter century ago, few farmers were covering crops. Alabama has been a leader in this movement.

Cover crops are especially valuable in Southern States during winter months where they protect corn, cotton, and tobacco lands from erosion caused by heavy rains, and improve the soil when plowed under. Orchard owners in all parts of the nation find cover crops of value in holding the soil between rows of fruit and nut trees. Winter legumes such as Austrian winter peas, vetch, and clover are among the nation's most widely used cover crops.

The strip of Dennis Turner's pasture, at Billingsley, took the prize of 1,000 pounds of basic slag as the worst exhibit at the show. Turner had seeded his pasture, but it had not been fertilized and it had been burned over. Turner said his basic slag would be used to fertilize an acre of his pasture.

Chinese Food Costs Are Increasing

THE cost of living—in fact the cost of mere subsistence—in China is increasing daily, according to newspaper reports. Rice, the staple food of China, is today so expensive that thousands cannot afford to buy it, and low income families are not able to purchase the necessary food.

A conveniently built kitchen, especially one that has been improved is certainly a joy—well, maybe not a joy, but it's a lot better than one with no cabinets, too much walking space, and not enough light. Mrs. Charles Dubose, Glenwood, Crenshaw County, likes this one much better, she says.

Her eyes are shiny periods;
Her lips are parentheses;
Her nose is an exclamation mark,
But more—much more—important
Than any one of these,
Are two interrogation points
That never miss, my dove,
A sentence simple or complex.

YES, your child has two ears and you can bet your life they are used a plenty. You'd be surprised how much those ears pick up and how each bit of information is interpreted by that young son or daughter.

Maybe your youngster, silently listening to an adult discussion on the present European war, has looked up and said, "We are going to have to do something about Hitler."

Are such statements indicative of insecurity in children or does it simply mean that children need to be brought into adult discussions more?

Parents who remain calm in the midst of change pass on to their children a conception of security that makes them take what ever comes with courage and a spirit of adventure. Those parents understand "Even this will pass away" and show it by their actions.

Children are natural little imitators. They learn from parents to live each day, as it comes, to the fullest—to play today's game as best they can for the simple joy of playing it well—whether it be win, lose or draw.

So remember, when you talk, two ears are waiting. Be sure your casual statements are not wrongly interpreted by those "interrogation points"—the ears of your child.

Flowers Bring $450

MRS. H. M. DUNN, Northport, a seller on the Tuscaloosa curb market, made $450 on her flowers alone last year, reports Artha Mae Thompson, assistant home agent.

She grows cut flowers, gladioli, and dahlias for sale on the market. At the present time she has small plants of pansies, fox, daisies, sweet peas, poppies, larkspur, ragged robins, carnations and baby breath on the market.

Mrs. Dunn enjoys growing gladioli and dahlias better than the other flowers. She has 38 varieties of dahlias and four varieties of gladioli.

Mrs. Dunn also sells vegetables, meat, and eggs.

Women Can Say "I Told You So" About Dresses

PLAS, PEAS, PEAS

MRS. A. E. YOW, Northport in Tuscaloosa County, believes in peas. She grows nine varieties for sale on the Tuscaloosa curb market. Here are the varieties she grows: Lady peas, Rice peas, Sugar Crowder, White Running Crowder, Improved Speckled, Purple Hull, Couch peas, Clay peas, and Black-eyed peas.

Trench Silos In Lawrence Praised

NINE trench silos built in Lawrence County during 1940 are proving very satisfactory to their owners, reports S. A. Goodwin, assistant county agent.

Goodwin estimates that there were 900 tons of sorghum silage put up in Lawrence County last year at a cost of approximately $1 per ton. He states that this silage is one of the cheapest forms of roughage that can be grown on the farm for dairy or beef cattle.

"Three tons of silage and one ton of good legume hay will winter a dairy cow and three tons of silage will carry each head of beef cattle through the winter."

Tired Of Stooeping

LAMAR County home demonstration club women have decided this "stooeping" business is out. They have organized to get their husbands to build them stands of the correct height for doing that scrubbing and rinsing connected with home laundering.

Curb Market Sales Bring Good Profits

A $29 profit on 100 chickens is what anyone would call a good job.

Mrs. Festus Deal, Rt. 1, Tuscaloosa, reports she cleared $29.60 on 100 dressed chickens which she sold on the Tuscaloosa curb market. The broilers sold for 40c a pound, the fryers for 35c a pound and the hens for 25c per pound.

Elizabeth Collins, home demonstration agent, reports that Mrs. Deal averages selling 18 pounds of butter each week as well as meat, vegetables and other products. She has not missed a day as seller on the curb market in five years.

Food Prices

INDICATIONS are that food prices will continue to show an increase. This is just another reminder that farm people in Alabama—to avoid buying and paying high prices—need to produce an ample supply of food on the farm, says P. O. Davis, director, Extension Service.

Farm Tips

WOOD shingles may be made to last longer by coating them with a mixture of four parts of raw linseed oil, two parts of coal tar creosote oil and one part of Japan drier.

STIFF door locks can sometimes be effectively lubricated without removal by inserting through the keyhole a feather dipped in machine oil.

PAINTING is one way to keep the underside of a porch from rotting on account of moisture. If the house is just being built, paint the boards before laying them.

CONTOUR farming, under average conditions of slope will reduce moisture loss. In farming around the hill, each cultivation furrow tends to serve as a small dike holding back the rush of run-off water.

tension clothing specialist, says records show that instead of spending $69 the Alabama farm woman spends an average of $26.76 a year on her clothes. She makes practically a 11 of her dresses. Last year home demonstration club women made themselves more than 29,000 cotton house dresses and, in addition, made more than 88,000 other new garments.

Cotton stamps which cooperating Alabama farmers will receive this fall may be used in purchasing all kinds of cotton goods including dresses, house coats, pajamas, shirts, trousers, overalls, children's clothing, baby clothes, gloves, stockings, men's underwear, women's underwear, sheets, blankets, pillow cases, towels, curtains, slip covers, bed spreads, mattress covers, table cloths, napkins, piece goods, plow lines.

Eggs Are Plentiful Now

EGGS, eggs,—eggs everywhere and plenty to eat if you will just use them.

During the spring months the hens on the farm will be laying as many eggs as they do in the other eight months of the year. Unless you have a market for eggs they are going to have to be eaten or wasted. The egg is a "package full of good food values"—rich in iron, protein, calcium, and phosphorus. Eggs are especially important for children.

Maybe the children and you, too, don't like eggs the way you have been fixing them. Try a new way. But regardless of how you cook your eggs it is important to remember to keep the heat low.

Here are a few ways of using eggs alone: soft-cooked, hard-cooked, creamed, scrambled, scrambled country style, poached, baked, plain omelet, French omelet, egg souffle, stuffed and scalloped. For these recipes get a copy of "Recipes," Extension Service Circular 74, from your home agent.

FARMERS, above every business man in the world, should plan more for the future. His future, our future, everybody's future depends upon his success.—Franklin County Times.

Here're Home-Grown Refreshments

IF it takes a little "society" to sell the value of food preservation then Mrs. S. S. Shirley, of Good Hope community in Pike County, has done a good job.

Mrs. Shirley, who practices canning a large quantity of a variety of foods, recently entertained her home demonstration club. At this meeting Mrs. Shirley served delicious refreshments—fruit salad made from home canned fruit cocktail, fruit cake made by an original recipe, scuppernon nectar. All of these and other products are part of her pantry store of 528 pints of fruits, vegetables, meats and other canned food.

Argentine Beef

THERE should be no objection to United States purchase of Argentine canned meat from domestic livestock producers now as this program will not affect American meat production and consumption at all. The army and navy should have the best that is possible and it is admitted by meat men that Argentine tin beef is good. We cannot expect others to buy from us if we do not buy from them.—Butcher's Advocate.

Community Cooperation Pays Dividends

WHEN one says Duck Springs community it is almost like saying community cooperation. This rural community, 17 miles from Gadsden in Etowah County, is certainly proving that community activities can be carried on for the good of all.

Prior to the installation of a community refrigerator large amounts of pork spoiled annually. Since the coming of the refrigerator the 87 patrons have experienced no loss from spoilage of farm killed meat.

The group of farmers are utilizing the refrigeration equipment in a group community enterprise. An electric sausage mill, meat cutter and curing equipment were installed in the small plant. Last year they produced over 2,000 pounds of high quality home made sausage and a great deal of country cured hams and bacon.

So good are these products that many people are making special trips of considerable distance to purchase them.

If A Task Is Once Begun, Never Leave It 'Til It's Done

IF a task is once begun, never leave it 'til it's done. That's what some folks in Washington County are saying.

Recently 36 farmers gathered at a terracing demonstration in the Frankville community. However, since terracing work is not exciting and thrilling the procedure became a little bit too dull for about half the farmers and they decided to go home. Eighteen of the original 36 stayed for the complete demonstration.

Several days later Lesley Easley, on whose farm the demonstration was held, reported "you should see the terracing work that has started in Frankville community. Why even the men who left the school want to learn how to build terraces like the ones we are building according to the specifications we learned at the demonstration."

Those holding the demonstration, headed by County Agent Ralph R. Jones, say the demonstration was discouraging but that the old saying "If a task is once begun, never leave it 'til it's done" certainly proved true in this instance.

TUSCALOOSA farm families save from $200 to $300 in food cost when the canning budget is conserved, reports Elizabeth Collins, home demonstration agent.

Living at home on home-grown foods is being practiced by Mrs. Wilton Quates, Conecuh County home demonstration club member and foods record keeper for the year.

One of three Conecuh women to carry on foods record projects, Mrs. Quates keeps a record of all the foods eaten by the family. Bought foods and home grown foods are listed in different parts of the foods record book. Next year this record will be used as the basis for planning the year's food production to better supply the family needs at home.

America Has A Food Problem

T. SWANN HARDING, of the United States Department of Agriculture, says that although Great Britain at war managed to feed her people scientifically, we in America have largely prostituted the newer techniques of nutrition.

But we have the solution to our farm problem. If all American families now on relief and all with incomes of less than $1,000 a year could be given incomes of $1,250 a year the results would be stupendous. They would buy

$1,247,000,000 worth more food, adding over half a billion to farm income. They would also purchase more non-food farm commodities.

The first step is to regard our entire production and distribution of basic farm commodities as requiring intensive application of scientific knowledge to every phase of the problem—from preparing the soil and sowing the seed to the serving of food and distribution and consumption of farm commodities to those who need them.

Lessons Learned By 4-H Members Help

REGARDLESS of what they choose as life's work, Alabama farm boys and girls certainly believe in the lessons they learned as 4-H club members.

Just recently Ira Till, an ex-4-H club member of Hayneville in Lowndes County, told D. D. Vickery, assistant county agent, that even though he owns and operates a filling station and a cafe he is finding that the 4-H club has really prepared him for making a living.

First thing he learned was to keep records of his projects and to "mix with people." Today both of these lessons are paying good dividends in his business.

Ira built a fish pond as a 4-H project. He learned to fertilize and stock the pond and care for it through his club agents. Today the fish pond is providing money as well as good recreation.

Ira won the State Health championship while he was a 4-H club member. Today he says that the health principles and habits he learned as a club member are certainly going to be used to keep his family healthy.

dung were not bought; stain and material for upholstery cost $2. Thus the Murphys have an attractive studio couch for only $2 in money and a little bit of work.

Good Price

ONE of the most salable and profitable types of livestock during the past two years has been good milk cows. The price of milk cows generally over the entire country has been unusually high in relation to the general level of prices of agricultural products.

As a result of this, and a relatively high price of dairy products, farmers have saved a large number of heifer calves and increased their dairy herds.

This increase in the number of cows is likely to cause the price of cows to drop below the high prices they have maintained during the last two years.

They Built A $2 Studio Couch

A studio couch is a mighty nice thing to have and there isn't much trouble or expense in getting it if you go about it right.

That is what Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Murphy of the Harmon community in Bibb County did. Mr. Murphy made the frame of oak, bolted it together and stained it. Then they used half of an old folding bed spring in the bottom of the couch and the other half in the cushion.

Refuge For Turkeys And Deer Established By State And U. S.

UNCLE SAM is cooperating with Alabama in establishing a 2,200-acre refuge for bronze wild turkeys and whitetail deer. Located in Clarke County at a total cost of $40,000, it is the first attempt to do something for Alabama big game.

The tract of land is located eight miles south of Jackson and includes 1,300 acres of state lands plus 780 acres bought from individuals. The Federal Government will donate $30,000 with State Conservation Department furnishing the remaining $10,000 from sale of timber.

After a strong wire fence has been erected around the entire area, a plot of 80 acres within the refuge is to be protected by an other fence nine feet high and "varmint proof." Here 60 wild turkey hens and ten gobblers, all native stock, will be placed.

For the deer rearing project, state trappers will catch a certain number of deer in other parts of Alabama, place them within the area and encourage propagation. As young are produced, they are to be trapped and distributed throughout the state to depleted areas.

Cities Need Rural Youth Migration

THE migration of country youths to the city, widely regarded as a regrettable development, is a necessity if the cities are not to die out. The American city population will decline about 24 per cent each generation if the present birth and death rates continue, and if there is no migration in from rural areas.

Marketing Committee Is Formed

AN effort to place more cash income in the hands of farmers a committee on standardization and marketing has been formed to help open up markets for new and old crops produced by Alabama farmers. The committee is composed of State Department of Agriculture officials, State Extension Service workers, chain store executives, farmer representatives, shippers and businessmen.

The committee will aid Alabama farmers in selling more of their products in the state's retail stores and will also help in standardizing and improving the products so that growers can compete successfully in out-of-state markets.

Members of the committee are: Haygood Patterson, State Commissioner of Agriculture and Industries; P. O. Davis, director, Alabama Extension Service; Alexander Nunn, managing editor of The Progressive Farmer; James B. Hill, president of the Hill Grocery Company, a state-wide chain; Charles S. Keller, director of the Alabama Chain Store Council; John Ward, secretary of the State Chamber of Commerce; Sam Teague, farm expert of the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Company; Frank Earle, president of the Farmers Bank and Exchange Association; and R. E. Cammack, state supervisor of rural education. An independent retail store representative will be appointed later with the advice of the State Retail Merchants Association.

Fertilize Ponds

THOSE farmers who haven't yet fertilized their fish ponds should do so right away. April is the best time for the first application, however, 100 pounds of 6-8-4 and 10 pounds of nitrate of soda per application should be repeated until the water becomes dark green.

W. A. Ruffin recommends 1000 pounds of 6-8-4 per year.

FOR AMERICA BUY COTTONS!

Ground Grain Is Much Cheaper

FARMERS can save 20 to 30 per cent by feeding ground grain as compared to feeding it whole. F. W. Burns, extension dairyman, states. Grinding of home-grown feeds is one use for electricity on many farms that is of economic value.

Business Men To Assist In Buying Purebred Bulls

(By W. M. Brunson)

The Elba Chamber of Commerce is trying to promote good livestock in Coffee County and they have definite plans for helping any worthy farmer who wishes to get into the livestock business.

The first thing they would like to do is to help in placing a good thoroughbred bull in each community desiring one. Do you or your community need a thoroughbred white face bull, a black Angus bull or a Jersey bull? If you do, then get in touch with us at once.

These bulls should be placed on the farms in such a way so every farmer will be in reach of one. They should not be more than 4 or 5 miles apart. We are glad to give you the suggested plan of securing one of these bulls. If you have sufficient cows for a bull of your own you will only need to contact a member of our committee. If your community needs a bull we would suggest that you get together and decide who will buy and keep the bull, decide how many will sign up to use the bull and decide the exact kind of bull you want. A representative of your community should contact some member of our committee and the plans will be worked out.

The Elba Chamber of Commerce hopes to help you and your community by buying these bulls at the right price and then help you to pay for the bull, by securing financial help in the nature of a loan. If you are the one to buy the bull you can do so without a dollar of cash. You may give a mortgage on the bull and on enough other property to secure the money and it is planned to give you two years in which to pay for the bull. This plan will enable any farmer who wants one to buy exactly what he wants. We feel that it is a great opportunity for the farmers of Coffee County.

We suggest that you organize as many of your neighbors as possible and send a representative to see us at once. It makes no difference with us as to whether the community buys the bull or one farmer, but we suggest that one farmer own and look after the bull. This will enable the farmer to care for the animal and make such charges as he thinks best. We shall try to suggest a standard charge throughout the county for a breeding fee.

We would like to place from two to ten bulls in each part of the county and we would like to do so at once. Please see your neighbors and reach an understanding at the earliest possible date.

All those who are interested will please come to Elba Saturday afternoon of this week and meet with us in the rear of the Elba Exchange Bank.

The committee in charge is composed of the following men: Mr. W. M. Brunson, chairman; Claude Dorsey, John M. Bonneau and W. L. Walsh.

UNUSUAL COOL SPELL PREVALES THIS WEEK

Temperatures in this section were unseasonably low the first four days of this week. Thermometers in Elba registered as low as 56 degrees Monday morning and it was still cooler Tuesday morning, thermometers dipping to the unusual low of 54 degrees. But the coolest morning was yet to come in this unusual cool spell. Wednesday morning the thermometer registered in the 40's and other growing crops, like early risers were shivering to their work in a wintry temperature.

Useful Articles Made At Home By Rural Women

(Mrs. L. C. Hutchison)

Resourceful Coffee County women have proven themselves proficient craftsmen in providing furnishings for their homes.

Instances include the woman who made a wooden frame and using an ice pick for a needle made beautiful rugs for her floors from woolen scraps and dyed burlap bags.

Another contrived a long-fold buffet for her dining room by combining the base of an old dresser and the top of an unused organ. Thriftily she converted the organ base into a cabinet for her kitchen.

Several housewives have manufactured platform rockers by removing the understructure of chairs and attaching stout springs beneath to base slats. Upholstering employed and the method of caring for the biddies.
